Starting college is a huge step in every person's life. All the seniors here at Kamala Nehru decided to form a team that was divided according to the courses available at our college. The aim was to help the newcomers adjust to college life by interacting with them on a daily basis and establishing a feeling of comfort. The NSS Unit of our college began this programme during the undergraduate admissions in 2019. The second and third years at that time would hold sessions and interact with their juniors to help them with whatever problems they were facing ranging from finding adequate PG's to choosing a generic elective subject. The seniors made sure that their juniors weren't alone and knew that they could approach them anytime. A list of all the peer mentors and their mobile numbers was distributed amongst the students of KNC to make the process of reaching out easier. The sessions that were held by seniors covered a range of topics from introducing the department to them, mental health questions, Freshers parties, etc. Any doubt that the newcomers had was taken care of patiently by their seniors.
