

Report: 2011-2012

Wide Angle, the film society was started with an aim to create awareness on how the medium of cinema extends beyond entertainment to a form of artistic expression, a reflection of society and a vehicle of social change.

We organized screenings on the themes of children's cinema, on auteur's of Indian Cinema and continued with our series on women film makers of the world. This year, Wide Angle organised a one month festival on the World War II films of the world.

This year we also initiated a virtual platform for Wide Angle members to interact beyond college in the form of a Wide Angle film Club blog. The members of the KNC film club could thus post their articles on the films they watched at college and also interact on the message board.
